THURSDAY, JUNE 21, 1744.

Madrid, June 1.

N the 30th of last Month there were great Rejoicings at Court, on Account of its being the Birth-Day of the Prince of Asturias. The Marquis de Villarias, Secretary of State, gave a noble Entertainment to all the Foreign Ministers. The French Ambassador, and the Marquis de Eusebio, were both in dit not speak, or take the least Notice, of him. The Marquis de Santa Cruz, who is Great Master of the Household to the Infant Don Philip, has had his Recall, on Account of his ill Health; but is severely suspected, that he is engaged in a Negotiation with the Marquis de Sosa, who is Natural Brother to the present King of Sardinia, who comes with him for whose Reception, our Town-House is prepared. Our Squadron, which lies at Cadiz, has Orders to sail, on the 10th of this Month, for the Coast of Africa; where they are to join the French Squadron under the Command of M. Gabaret. M. Nau is usually dignified, notwithstanding all the Bravadoes in the late Engagement; and the laying of the Court was not so much the Effects of any Satisfaction from hence, as the Indignation of his Court, on Account of his publishing the Letter he sent to the French Minister here; by which the bad behaviour of five Spanish Captains was made publick to Europe, as well as the irreconcileable Hatred of the French and Spanish Officers to each other. We are prepared a very extraordinary Supply of Money for the Infant Don Philip, which is to be effected by a considerable Body of Horse and Foot; whence it is said, that it is not only designed to defray the Expences of the Army, but to discharge likewise a considerable Subsidy; perhaps, to facilitate the Treaty that is to be negotiating with the King of Sardinia. According to the last Letters from his Royal Highness, Part of the combined Army was quartered in the Territories of State of Gimo, and the rest in the Marquisate of Vizcaya, the Cannon and heavy Baggage being to follow immediately.

(To be continued.) The English Fleet is come again to anchor in the Neighbourhood of this City, consisting of 1500 Ships and Frigates. It extends quite a mile, and blocks up all our Ports; so that, at present, we should carry on just as much Trade as we did when we had no Ports at all. We are mighty well provided for, and the M. de Maurepas has the Satisfaction of seeing his own Eyes, the Situation to which his Country has reduced us. We know, that he had a hand in procuring the Declaration of War against us, of which, we had not the least previous Notice; and by which, we are in a fair Way of being unprepared.

As the Fleet is now posted, there is absolutely no communication with the Army in Italy; and we must be in danger of Starving, if they cannot get a Passage into the King of Sardinia's Dominions, or the State of Genoa to sublimate them, or repass the Ligurian, in order to return again into this Kingdom.

We have this Moment Intelligence, that the English have fallen in with 20 Sail of Transports, laden with Cannon, eight of which they have either taken, or captured.

End of a Letter from Marseilles, June 5, 1744.

On Saturday last the Centinel posted on the Tower of Our Lady, having made a Signal, that Twelve Ships of War of the Line were bearing up for this Port, the whole City was in Motion. All the Burghers, the Number of 20,000, were under Arms; the Towns shut up, and all the Women and Children in the Towns order'd to keep their Houses, on Pain of Death. In the Evening the English, who had been torn'd to pieces by a brisk Gale of Wind, bore up again to the Harbour, and it was then concluded, that either an Action, or a Bombardment, was inevitable; so that we were in a greater Fright than before. We are, however, out of all our Fears for this Time; for some French Ships having appear'd upon our Coast, the English gave them Chase; and they are, at this Instant, encamping some of them, that took Shelter in the Harbour of Calais. Our Merchants go, at present, to Change their Putts in their Hands, and leave them at the two-Houses as they enter.

Extract of a Letter from Waterford, June 11.

Two Days ago a French Privateer took, about Four Leagues off our Harbour, a Sloop or two, and some Coasters. She is still in the North Channel, and may wait on this, and the Welsh Coasts, in Safety, far much as we don't hear of one Man of War, or English Privateer, in any Harbour of this Kingdom. Some People that they strip'd, and put ashore out of her about ten Miles off of this Place, report, that she is but a small Privateer. None of our Vessels will venture out, so that our Trade is now at a Stand. I mention this to you, that if any Ships are bound from your City to Dublin, they may be apprized of the Worst that may happen.

Dover, June 19. We hear from Calais, that Ypres was taken last Friday; but no Particulars, except that it has cost the French a great Number of Men. The French King is to be at Dunkirk this Day; and it is said, will give Orders for releasing all the British Ships, and Men, that were detained there before War was declared.
